Have group stand in a circle with their eyes closed and backs facing the center. Facilitator pulls 3-5 people into the circle and allows them to open their eyes. While the people standing around the circle keep their eyes closed, read a set of the statements listed below. As each statement is read, people in the circle should tap the shoulder of any members standing outside the circle that the statement applies to from their perspective. When set is complete, return participants in the circle to the circle, instructing them to close their eyes again. Pull 3-5 more people into the circle and repeat.
